CDM 2015 Awareness

Course Overview

CDM 2015 Awareness course gives learners an overview of the Construction (Design and Management) Regulations (CDM) 2015. It covers the roles and responsibilities of different duty holders and general health and safety requirements for construction sites.

Who is the course for?

Those involved in planning, managing or undertaking construction activities. The course also offers those new to CDM an introduction to the 2015 Regulations to help them understand their legal responsibilities.

Learning outcomes

- Understand the scope, application and interpretation of CDM 2015.
- Identify the responsibilities of the various duty holders.
- Understand the purpose and content of CDM 2015 documentation.
- Recognise the general health and safety requirements for construction sites.

Company benefits

- This course will enable your staff to perform activities in compliance with the CDM 2015 regulations.
- According to the HSE, up to 8.5% of a tender price is lost on typical construction projects. Adhering to CDM 2015 regulations ensures good management is in place to help reduce these costs.
- Staff who are trained in CDM regulations are well equipped to deal with clients, designers and contractors. They will be able to discuss the subject from a position of knowledge in a confident way.
